Where to Begin
God Made Many Things
England, Cuba, Russia
And the Shortest Day

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Asked "what is the news today," you hardly know where to begin. Stalin may send his Russian planes in a regular war against France, leader of Spanish rebels, chasing Franco and his followers as "pirates, outside the law."

Here Governor Falaré of Pennsylvania, "a bulk shedding of blood," makes a tour of "mud-bog and pig"—mines in the low 20's, continued fair with rising temperatures tomorrow; moderate westerly winds.

Owners of the mines say their coal is stolen with approval of the government, influenced by miners' vote. The miners say "God made the coal, not you." How could it be otherwise? "God made" everything—gold, diamonds, forests, human beings included.

England will establish a consular general at Addis Ababa, quietly recognizing Mussolini's conquest. If England were China or Japan, it would be necessary to do some "face-saving" in connection with ridiculous short war that Mussolini made of Britain and her 31 against one combination.

The wise English waste no money in face-saving—saving money and creating new business interest them.

Gomez, Cuba's president, moving out of his executive palace is expected to resign under compulsion. Colonel Fulgencio Batista the "strong man of Cuba's army" does not approve of him. "You may not be able to study a Latin dictator at close range in Havana, with 'self-government' being popular, the tendency is to select some one man and say 'you do it.'"

Yesterday was the shortest day in the year, with fewest hours and minutes for daylight work in life, already too short. On the other hand the longest night of the year went with it, good for night clubs and those that care little about life's brevity. Nature has her compensation.

A British lord, named Berrers, unlike most lords, a composer, painter and writer, has two elephants and one small ruminant to sell, or even give away. Nobody seems to want them. Uncle Sam can sympathize, having one elephant (guess its name) for which he means to have no further use, and that nobody seems to want.

Captain Nickenbacker's pilot, Henry T. Merrill, of the Eastern Air Lines, who has flown more than 2,000,000 miles without hurting himself or a passenger, including a round trip across the Atlantic ocean, finding himself in a bad storm, "pneumonia" his plane into the trees on a 1,500-foot hill.

Two passengers were shaken, not badly, the others not hurt. Merrill has some teeth, broke his jaw and left ankle, tore his face. In the hospital, through several lips, he remains unconscious. The greatest luck I ever had, naming his "luck" is not having injured his passengers.

He took his plane through an eighth of a mile of tree-tops, snapping off trunks five and six inches thick, and broke his plane between two big pines, jerky apart, in a blinding storm of rain and snow.

He used his lights until the last minute, when he cut the electric switch to prevent sparks and one of the gasoline fires that an often burn, flames on forced landings. He was individually lucky for a large piece of metal that broke loose and buried itself into all of his cockpit have cut off his breathing, but he did not die. "I had not quick, just as the crash came." His last remark, not to be repeated to young people, was "I hate like hell to lose that ship."

Francis Bacon begins his "Of Learning" with "It hath been an opinion that the French are wiser than they seem, and the Spaniards seem wiser than they are."

The present war in Spain seems to confirm that; Frenchmen have proven themselves energetic killers, but Spanish revolution have refrained from killing each other, and they have a faculty of surprising life with many ways.

For instance, the French lady, Madame Irene Schneider-Caplan, stepped into a plane bound for Paris with her friend, Pilot Pierre L'Allemant, from the back L'Allemant landed the plane got out, staggered away. The lady seized the controls, landed in England, landed just beyond the water's edge, reported fine dead, gasoline gone, and not seriously injured. "Let me alone," said she, "I don't let it."

Somerville Girl Routs Assailant

FLORENCE SEEBEK Holds Club She Snatched From Sluggers

It's a lucky thing that the youth who struck pretty 16-year-old Florence Seebek of Benedict street, Somerville, over the head, decided to flee when he did.

For, despite the blow, the high school girl turned, grabbed the stick from the hands of her assailant and was about to turn into a thrashing when he took to his heels.

The young girl was returning home from the East Somerville library and was about to turn into her home when she was struck. She was not seriously injured.

She told police he was dressed in a knitted cap and black leather jacket. The stick, which was about 15 inches long, Florence is putting "among her mementoes."

DO YOU WANT A BIG, FAT TURKEY?
Of course you do! But you wouldn't enjoy a mouthful of it on Christmas day if you felt that there were many men, women and CHILDREN who didn't have even a SCRAP OF BREAD to eat while you were feasting. Yet, there are many in Boston and its vicinity who WILL GO HUNGRY unless YOU give them food for the feast that celebrates the birth of that Patron of all Charity, Jesus Christ.

YOU can still do this, today and tomorrow, by sending YOUR contribution to the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund, the appeals for which you will find on Page 2. In the name of Jesus, we have ALL been told that we must "FEED THE HUNGRY."

CHURCH FIRES NEW LAST AT EDWARD

PAYS LOVE FOR ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, Dec. 22—One of the most sensational church controversies in English history burst today with an outpoken attack by the Archbishop of York upon former King Edward for allowing himself to fall completely in love "with another man's wife."

The archbishop is the second highest dignitary in the Church of England. His blast, in which he referred to Edward's romance with Mrs. Wallis Simpson as "a sad and humiliating story," provoked counter-criticism even surpassing that which followed the recent attack of the church head, the Archbishop of Canterbury, upon Edward's "fallen" friends.

While Lord Beveridge's Evening Standard led a bitter counter-attack upon the Archbishop of York, his superior, the Archbishop of Canterbury, showed grave concern over the furore, and pointed with the finger of reprobation at the standards of morality laid down by the church.

PRES. GOMEZ ON WAY OUT IN CUBA

Further denials that Francis J. Roche kicked or struck the night club waiter were given by defense witnesses in Suffolk court today at the one-time Cambridge mayoralty candidate's trial for manslaughter.

Harold C. Thompson, an attorney, who was at the floating night club S. S. Royale on the June night in 1935 when Austin McKrough, 63, the waiter, was kicked, testified:

"I saw nothing done by Roche which would be material to this case."

Thompson, under cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Frederick Doyle, denied he saw Roche kick or strike McKrough.

Thomas Mason, night club show producer, was called in the midst of his testimony when Doyle objected to his answering a question as to his conversation with McKrough the night of the alleged assault.

Mason, who then was president of the company owning the Royale, testified he had talked with McKrough but had talked before he could feel of the conversation.

By agreement between defense counsel, Daniel Gallagher, and Doyle, Mason will be recalled to the stand later.

The state claims McKrough died as the result of a kick he received on June 8, 1935. He lived only three weeks.

TEXTILE WORKERS ASK SHORTER HOURS

Washington, Dec. 22 (INS)—Textile workers here for their first vote-president, Francis J. German, members of the United Textile Workers of America today, sought a reduction in minimum wage and maximum hours before the coming session of Congress.

Statistics show that the textile workers today for four hours at low pay, delivered German in a state-fair fight here.

Justice Stone Back by Feb. 1

Washington, Dec. 22 (INS)—Justice Harlan F. Stone of the Supreme Court will resume his place on the bench about February 1.

Justice Stone, who suffered an attack of dysentery which kept him in bed for 10 weeks, has entirely recovered and now is seeking rest in the South.

Third Victim Dies In Mexican Fight

Mexico City, Dec. 22 (AP)—Germans Salvador Mayorga died early today, bringing to three the number dead as a result of a gun battle last night near the Chamber of Deputies building.

GIRLS SEE LANGONE PUNCHED IN FIGHT

Girl clerks shivered with excitement and strong men held their breaths today as P. Emmett Gavin of the Parole and Pardon Board traded fast lefts and rights with formidable State Senator Joseph A. Langone, Jr., at the State House, first floor, rear.

The bout lasted only one round. Husky John Murphy, a 260-pound ex-footballer attached to the department of corrections, ended it and gave the decision to Gavin just after the latter landed on Langone's left eye with a whizzing right hand that started from the floor.

In the resultant confusion, the North End senator was whisked away to the Senate room while anxious henchmen raced to drug stores and meat markets for healing poultices and pots and pans of beefsteak for the damaged "optical organ."

Senator Langone issued the following defeat statement, smiling bravely, albeit somewhat painfully:

"Aw, nuts! What's everybody running around for? You'd think it was a disgrace to have a black eye!"

For all his nonchalantness, however, the senator snarled tenderly at the red line and black mouse with an inflamed State House lower.

According to him the battle of the holiday season started when he went down to the parole office "just to see about a fellow in Concord" in whom he was interested.

"It was like this—see," he explained. "I just went down to see about this kid in Concord and I saw Gavin and I asked him was the boy on the Christmas pardon list."

"He says he didn't know, and I asked him to let me get a look at him."

TAXICAB KILLS DAUGHTER OF HUB BANKER

Miss Barbara Hallett, 34, of 106 Highland street, West Newton, daughter of a Waltham and Boston banker, was killed today by a taxicab in New York city.

She had studied extensively here and abroad, had won recognition as a poet and had recently gone to New York to embark on a literary career.

Her father is Herbert K. Hallett, vice president of the Waltham National Bank, formerly president of the Atlantic National Bank of Boston and a member of the federal advisory council of the Federal Reserve System.

CROSSING PARK AVENUE

Miss Hallett was struck by the taxicab while crossing Park avenue at Fifty-seventh street. She died on the way to the hospital in an ambulance. Joseph Cohen, the cab driver, was held for questioning.

Identification was made through letters in Miss Hallett's pockets which also showed she had been living in New York at the American Women's Association.

Her father, who is 58, was too shocked by the news to talk to reporters. Miss Hallett's mother also survives her, as well as a sister, Mrs. Luman Howe of Montpelier, Vt.

NEWTON HIGH GRAD

Miss Hallett was a graduate of Newton high school and the Hotchkiss school, Norton, and had studied at Columbia University. She had studied literature in France and Italy.

Several of her poems had been accepted and published by leading magazines.

Her father is a director of numerous corporations, including the Worcester Street Trust Co., Waltham; Clinton Market Co., Jersey City; and New York, and is president of the Clearing House Association, Boston Chamber of Commerce and American Bankers' Association.

Socialite Hales Ex-Hubby to Court; Charges Slapping

Nobody is going to stop around Mrs. Marion Dore Hutchinson Hales, Marlborough and New York social registers, and get away with it.

That was apparent today as the prettiest divorcee bled her ex-husband, former husband, when she charged into Brooklyn court on a charge of slapping and battery.

Pending guilty, Hales was sentenced by Judge Philip H. Porter to a month in the House of Correction and appeal variance. He was held in $500 bail.

BANDAGE OVER EYE

Appearing in court with a partially concealed bandage obscuring her right eye, Mrs. Hales told Judge Porter the post-marital chapter of her history with Hales, whom she divorced two years ago on charges of cruelty—charges that included, incidentally, two other alleged slappings at Hales' hands.

With her small son, who is ill, she was living in a Brooklyn apartment house, she said, when she discovered that her former husband had moved into an adjoining apartment. Her boy's illness kept her from coming out sooner.

Last night, she told the judge, Hales forced his way into her room and gave her the beating of which the bandage was one outward and visible sign.

BRIEF MARRIAGE

The Hales were married in the spring of 1934, but their marriage lasted only until the following January. When Mrs. Hales went into prison, she was charged with two counts of slapping and battery, which had dulled the edge of their romance.

The judge, however, recalling that Mrs. Hales had previously divorced Samuel R. Hutchinson of Brooklyn on a charge of slapping, told the case under advisement. Later the divorce was granted.

Hales is the son of a Boston stock broker and a descendant of Judge William E. Paken, first justice of Marlborough court.

Red Tape Holds Up Bank Dividends

Legal red tape, compelling heirs to secure substantial expense in collecting dividends of 5 per cent declared by the defunct Federal National Bank, was called to public attention today by Registrar of Probate Arthur W. Sullivan.

One such heir, seeking to obtain $2, found he could do so only by spending $12, Sullivan asserted.

He pointed out that cases of filing necessary court papers and inserting obligatory newspaper advertisements makes it unprofitable for hundreds of supposed beneficiaries to obtain the bank payments.

Wife Twice Wed Claims Husband

Frances Alice E. Williams, of Pleasant street, Cambridge, for annulment of her marriage, 12 years ago, to Mrs. William A. Ames, also of Cambridge, on the ground she had another husband when they were wed, has been taken under advisement by Judge Arthur E. Reane, in Middlesex Probate Court.

Childhood Sweethearts Wed at Last

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Nield of Jersey street, Black Bay, who were sweethearts a generation ago in England and who have just been married after the bride crossed the ocean to join her husband-to-be. Mrs. Nield's daughter, Jean, 12, child by a former marriage, is shown between happy pair.

Widow Spans Sea To Wed in Boston

Childhood sweethearts of a generation ago were man and wife here today, after the bride had crossed the ocean from England to join her Black Bay fiance.

The wedding took place in Dorchester, with the Reverend Norman King, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, performing the ceremony.

The bride was Mrs. Anne Ingram O'Neill, a widow of St. Helen, Lancashire, England.

She married Arnold Nield of Jersey street, Black Bay, just a few hours previously, she had come ashore here from the liner Normania, accompanied by her 12-year-old daughter, Jean.

The former Mrs. O'Neill and her present husband were sweethearts when they both were schoolchildren in St. Helen. Her first marriage was to the "other" O'Neill, who died.

Nield and Mrs. O'Neill began to write each other, corresponding more and more frequently.

Each was lonely. Each remembered the "old days." Nield proposed that they marry.

Today they were together at last. Jean O'Neill, the daughter, was with them. She was present at the wedding, which had her own enthusiastic approval.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, TODAY—America's greatest columnist Ingraham of Oney street, was on world affairs by American.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham aided by her's best known editor, Arthur Louis Allen and his son.

CURLEY FOES WIN DELAY IN QUABBIN CLAIMS FIGHT

Breathing spell was granted to proponents and opponents of the Swift river damage claims for diversion of waters in the future with the adjournment of the Executive Council's public hearing on the question until noon tomorrow.

The Council is now adjourned for the afternoon. Although Attorney General Phil Davis had told him to hold on, he had no power to prevent the adjournment. Davis, who is in charge of the Swift river diversion project, had been expected to appear at the hearing. He is now in the hospital, suffering from a severe cold. The Council's decision to adjourn the hearing until noon tomorrow was a victory for the opponents of the project. They had been hoping for a delay in the hearing, so that they could have more time to prepare their case. The proponents of the project, on the other hand, were disappointed. They had been hoping for a decision in their favor at the hearing. The Council's decision to adjourn the hearing until noon tomorrow was a victory for the opponents of the project. One Hurt as Cocoa Bags Bury Trio On Freighter

Barred under a "standstill" of heavy bags of cocoa beans in the hold of the British freighter St. Columba at the dock in Boston, three men were seriously injured while two others were injured with bruises.

John Landry, 38, of Boston, was injured with a broken right arm and possible internal injuries. The other two men are Jack McHugh, 41, of Boston, and Frank McHugh, 41, of Boston. They were all injured while working on the freighter. The accident occurred while the men were loading cocoa beans into the hold of the ship. The beans were stacked in a way that made it difficult for the men to move them. One of the men fell from the stack and was injured. The other two men were also injured while trying to help him. Egyptians Trade Onions to Krupp For Nile Bridge

Berlin, Dec. 22 (AP)—The first Krupp bridge built in Egypt to help Germany's trade with the Nile for the Egyptian government. In part payment, the company will take Egyptian onions and bring them back to Germany.

On the other hand, the Egyptian government is taking all available supplies. This was the agreement which recently produced a million tons of wheat for Germany.

It was also agreed that the Krupp bridge would be built in part payment for the Egyptian government. The company will take Egyptian onions and bring them back to Germany.

A German trade agreement with Egypt was signed for two years, providing a constant supply of but-ter, eggs, wool and hides from that country.

Germany's bankers, joining in the Nazi drive to give revenue to a happy Christmas despite the food difficulties, gave away coupons for seven halves.

X-RAYS FOR CAKES Doc Helps Find Lost Bolt

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP)—The mystery of which Christmas fruit cake had a metal bolt in it was solved today, with the aid of a physician and his X-ray machine.

Mrs. Louis H. Hake, who baked 15 cakes, discovered that a quarter-loaf bolt from an electric mixer was missing after she mailed one cake to a sister and had the others wrapped for mailing.

A thorough search convinced her the bolt was in one of the cakes. Telephone 10, Dr. G. G. Hake, told her the action.

"How would you like to X-ray a surprise cake?" the doctor asked.

At 8 o'clock Mrs. Hake watched anxiously. Dr. Hake turned on the X-ray for X-ray treatment. The current was turned on and in cake No. 24 was found the bolt.

The physician declined a fee but he will have one of Mrs. Hake's best cakes for Christmas.

Attorney Joseph G. Bryer said he would take action in some form within 24 hours. Bryer claims the Hake's lost the bolt to remove him from the commission, which carries an entry.

Anne Conant Makes Debut At Luncheon

By BETTY ALDEN

THE HOBBIES of this year's debutantes represent a wide variety of activities... but probably the most daring and dangerous is that of Anne Conant... who is New England's youngest woman pilot and already has an amateur license to her credit...

Anne has had to forget the thrills of flying this winter, as she is attending college in Sweet Briar, Va., where she has no opportunity to take to the air...

She was presented today at a large luncheon at the Brookline home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus B. Conant... and judging by the order of the party we gather she prefers blue and silver planes... She wore a blue gown, the shade of bachelor buttons, trimmed with silver embroidery in a Russian motif... and the same two colors predominated in the decorations throughout the house...

The guests could take an imaginary peek into the future as they sat at the small luncheon tables... for the centerpiece on each consisted of silver gazing bowls such as crystal gazers, use hollowed out and filled with bachelor buttons and silver leaves...

Mrs. Conant, who also entertained a few sub-debutante friends of her younger daughter, Faith, wore a black sheer gown trimmed with silver lace, and a gardenia corsage...

Anne has two of her Sweet Briar classmates as house guests for the occasion of her debut... and Christmas night she is going to Schenley to visit another classmate, Virginia Allison... The girls staying with her are Constance Currier and Marie Giffney, both of New York...

Among the post debutantes who attended the luncheon today were Frances Proctor and her sister, Mrs. Richard Thompson, Peggy Stuart, Mrs. Edwin Brooks (Theodora Lawrence), Mrs. John Kennard (Lydia Lund), and Nancy Appleton...

The winner School classmates of Faith, the debutante's younger sister, who attended were Emily Young, Angela Lang, Nancy Tucker, Anne Smith and Nancy Peabody... and among the hostess' sister debutantes seated about the six friends she chose to be hostesses at the various tables... Jean Conn, Betty Mixer, Charlotte Ives, Peggy Cullen and Eleanor Friedman...

Lewis-Locke Ceremony

THE DULNESS and quiet in Northampton which usually mark the first few days of Smith College vacations, was dispelled this season by excitement over the wedding of Elizabeth Locke and Geoffrey Whitney Lewis, which took place yesterday in St. John's Episcopal Church on Elm street...

The bride's parents, Professor and Mrs. Arthur Ware Locke, though Boston social regulars, live in Northampton on Round Hill road where their many friends gathered to greet the bridal couple after the ceremony...

Elizabeth wore her mother's wedding veil of heaviest lace with her gown of bridal satin which was made on princess lines with a high waistline and square neck... She carried an arm bouquet of lilacs of the valley and white roses...

The Rev. Alton Ochendorf, rector of St. John's, officiated and Professor Locke gave his daughter away... His Christian and Professor Locke gave his daughter away... His Christian and Professor Locke gave his daughter away...

Anne Griswold Locke, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor and wore an empire style frock of pale yellow brocade damask with a brown velvet pocket bonnet, and carried an armful of vari-colored flowers...

The six bridesmaids included Edith Lewis, sister of the bridegroom, who was one of last winter's most popular debutantes and has recently become engaged in Hamilton, Massachusetts... The other five were Margaret Pickering of Pasadena, California... Jane Bowker of Northampton... Mary Prescott of New York... Mary Bradley of Nyack, N. Y... and Elizabeth Burlingame of Syracuse, N. Y...

They were all dressed alike in cornflower blue brocade with velvet bonnets of a deeper hue...

Bridal Party Honored at Supper

MR. LEWIS was attended by his brother as best man... and the large usher corps included Egbert Newburg, Paul Reardon, George Davol, Henry Howe Richards, Jr., Dr. David Weir and Stephen Stockdale...

On the eve of the wedding the entire bridal party and some of the out of town guests were entertained at an informal supper party by Professor and Mrs. Locke...

The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda, following which they will be at home on Oxford street, Cambridge...

Elizabeth, who is a member of the Boston Junior League, made her debut in 1931-32 after her graduation from Miss Walker's School in Simsbury, Ct... After she came out she attended Radcliffe for two years and then attended Smith where she graduated in 1934...

Mr. Lewis, son of Mrs. Geoffrey Lewis of Brookline, graduated from Harvard in 1932 and is a member of the Speakers Club, Sigma Society, and Hasty Pudding Institute of 1770... He attended Cambridge University for one year and is now an assistant dean at Harvard...

DEB'S Gown for Bow in Baltimore

EMILY ANN NICHOLS, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gilman Nichols of Cambridge is one of the new members of the Vincent Club and a provisional member of the Junior League. Miss Nichols made her debut at a tea dance at the Cambridge Boat Club in November, and also was presented at the Bachelors' Cotillion in Baltimore, on which occasion she wore the ivory brocade gown in which she is pictured above.

OPERA SEASON OPENS

Crowded House Hears 'Walkure'

New York, Dec. 22 (U.S.)—Great crowds surged into and against the Metropolitan Opera House last night for the opening of the 54th season, with the "Walkure," that evening Wagnerian triumph.

Seated were those old friends, it is reported, with the famous leaders of fashion, industry and commerce, guiding their wives and daughters, arrayed in chaste and elegant costumes and, some, in the most elaborate and around the corner, every man and woman, busily holding against intruders.

As the hot office opened for the standing room only, the pressure brought in the rushing crowd and the lobby seemed to buzz with the excitement of the night.

With every seat and aisle again and only 100 tickets allowed for standing room, a long queue of men and women waited for the orchestra and around the corner, every man and woman, busily holding against intruders.

League Play Groups Busy

HAMMERING and carpentering is still going on at a feverish pace at the left on River street where Junior Leaguers are putting the finishing touches on the scenery for "The Blue Bird," which the league's players are presenting at the Copley Theater after Christmas.

The scenery is being transported to the theater in the next few days so that everything will be in readiness for the dress rehearsal Monday.

The stage crew, which has its main cutting the actual production of the play, is getting lined up for action and consists of Nancy and Penelope Hill, Mrs. Edward L. Bond, Mrs. Donald D. Douglas, Mrs. Thomas E. Jones, Virginia Morse and Marjorie Osgood.

Mrs. Dexter Paine is property mistress and Amy Long is to serve as prompter.

Among the additional patronesses for the play are Mrs. William F. Augustine, Mrs. Frank G. Allen, Mrs. John S. Ames, Mrs. James B. Ayer, Mrs. Richard K. Baker, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Arthur W. Bell, Mrs. Randolph K. Byers, Mrs. Robert C. Campbell, Mrs. Foster W. Casper, Mrs. Malcolm Donald, Mrs. Richard Paulsen, Mrs. Philip Lawrence, Mrs. Robert W. Fineman, Mrs. John L. Hall, Mrs. Joseph Handman, John Howell, Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mrs. William H. Jones, Mrs. Henry E. Morrison, Mrs. Henry Morse and Mrs. Nell Tatum.

Title Play at Longwood

Santa deer not often include tenor twos, among his gifts for New Englanders, for winter sports and skis and ice skating can be used right away, are generally more popular.

However, if he should change his usual custom and leave requests under the tree of Polly Mitt, Coby Madden or Dorothy Waltham, they would be put to use immediately, for the junior girls' national indoor championships begin at Longwood, and the contestants will spend most of the coming week-end practicing here and out on the ice.

Polly Coby and Dorothy are only a few of the many youthful athletes entered in the tournament which is again being arranged by Mrs. George Waltham, Dorothy's mother.

Some of the other contestants will be Lois Ladd, Elena Crenne, Hope Kowles, Katherine Hubbard, Ruth Carter, Helen Bernhard, Jean Davis, Frances Kelly, Barbara Keller, Constance Allen, Jean Drake, Rosamund Davidson, Priscilla Capley, Edna White and Florence Gilmore.

The players will start their singles and doubles matches early in the morning and continue until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and the tournament will continue until the finale has been played.

Zonta Club Meets

Laura Huxtable Porter entertained the Zonta Club of Boston at their Christmas party last evening at the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. Mrs. Porter, literary interpreter and pianist, presented a most charming program, with the "Walkure" in poetry, music, comedy and tragedy.

This unique and original union music and drama was one of the most outstanding programs of the Zonta year.

Planning Collegiate Get-Together

RITA CANNEY, PEGGY FOHRY, BARBARA O'HAGAN, RUTH FITZGERALD. SEVERAL COLLEGES throughout New England will be represented at the gay dance which the Phi Alpha Kappa sorority and Stag Club are having at the Hotel Continental tomorrow evening. A trio of Simmons College girls, Rita Canney, Peggy Fohry, Barbara O'Hagan and Ruth Fitzgerald, who attend Lowell Junior College, are active with plans for the holiday frolic.

Nicolas Club Presents Plays

ARDENT THESPIANS made their debuts last evening while fond mamma and pappa and countless friends applauded their efforts at the annual plays which the Nicolas Club presented in Brattle Hall in Cambridge.

In the opening feature of the program, A. A. Milne's "Camberley Triangle," Marjorie Walsh was excellent in her role of Kate Camberley. Later in the evening, after moving her cross-patch and her theatrical trappings, she made her appearance in a somewhat new role of black velvet.

Representatives of the older group were Mrs. Charles Maginn, whose black, not green, was sprinkled with diamonds and Mrs. Portenfield, who wore pearls with her blue metallic evening gown.

It was a gay evening for the collegians in the group... many remarks, if just a beginning of the whirl of events which will take place before the New Year rolls around.

Marjorie Quigley, home for the holidays from her studies at Wellesley, presented about the floor in a pink and green frock top-knot of flowers in her attractive culture. The gold paillettes sparkled on the white net frock of Mona O'Connell and Mrs. Emily Mitchell of Brookline looked her black dress with a cape of red and gold brocade.

Other couples taking the club's evening which benefited the club's various charities were Alice Hatch, whose white crepe had tiny circles of rhinestones and Anne Merrick, whose cluster of gardenias topped her ensemble of black and white. She was escorted by John Hayes.

Among the "newly-weds" were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carver and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barry. Mrs. Carver... the former Anne O'Reilly chose kebabian taffeta and Mrs. Barry... who before her spring wedding was Anne Crowley... wore strings of pearls with her chic frock of black damask.

The holidays are in the merry ones for Dr. and Mrs. Charles Donovan of Swampscott. Besides playing Santa in a trio of attractive children, Charles, Jr., Grace and David King, they are entertaining at their swankiest home the Sunday after the holiday.

Gauche will be members of the committee which is planning the Ave of Clubs charity supper dance on the first Friday in February.

For a Lovelier Mouth---
Learn to Laugh

By DONNA GRACE

THEY SAY THAT A WOMAN'S mouth is the key to her success. It is true, for a woman who can laugh and smile and be happy, no matter what her lot, is a woman who is sure to attract the admiration and love of many men. It is not the size of the mouth, nor the shape, but the way it is used that counts. A woman who can laugh and smile and be happy, no matter what her lot, is a woman who is sure to attract the admiration and love of many men.

New Methods of Treating Superfluous Hair Made Easy in Home Leaflet

By DONNA GRACE

OUR inform, all women increase with time, and "we girls" turn then to a family conference now and then, we will be well nigh swamped with them.

There are many ways of removing them, but the most common is by using a depilatory. This is a chemical which dissolves the hair, and it is very easy to use. It is sold in many forms, and it is very easy to use. It is sold in many forms, and it is very easy to use.

A "sebaceous cyst," more commonly known as a "wen" is a frequently observed swelling under the skin. It is due to the obstruction of the duct or passageway from one of the sebaceous or sweat glands of the skin.

As a rule, the cyst is not dangerous, but it is very unsightly. It is a swelling under the skin, and it is very unsightly. It is a swelling under the skin, and it is very unsightly.

The secret of the cure is to keep the gland clean and free from infection. This can be done by using a mild antiseptic, and by keeping the area clean and dry.

26 SAVED IN NORTH END FIRE

Damage Is Fixed at $25,000

15 CHILDREN LED TO SAFETY

Twenty-six persons, 15 of them children, were rescued from a four-story tenement in North End dwelling today and for a time threatened the entire neighborhood.

Great plume of North End fire which swept four dwellings from which 26 persons, 15 of them children, were rescued, flames and smoke brought terror to them. The loss was estimated at $25,000.

At North street station, Enrie Damore, Mrs. Emma Damore and Dolores Damore were waiting for their being forced out.

Our beloved these days is "GIVE." Because we want the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund to go over the top. Because small contributions will do it. Your cigarette money. Your dessert allowance. Something—anything—no matter how small. Just think how much cranberry sauce 50¢ would buy—or even a quarter. And just imagine what huge slices of turkey a whole dollar would buy!

Only three days remain—and we're counting on you. Give—and you'll see what a satisfied feeling you'll have.

Either send your contributions to one of us Girls About Town, or to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

IF MAINE AND VERMONT continue to be the East of gags, Hollywood will be trying to hire them soon. . . . But the two New England states figure today in an interesting report . . . which may also be a gag. . . . The story made the rounds of the Federal Building in Boston that holiday privileges had been denied members of the U. S. Internal Revenue Department because of the taxpayers' association. Republican in the present session. . . . The Boston state of two revenue officers will on home Thursday. And need not report for duty until Monday. . . . Next week a similar vacation has been ordered in recognition of the New Englanders in Maine and Vermont. According to the report, employees of the U. S. Internal Revenue staff will be obliged to check in for work on Saturday, or else work. . . . Republicans justifying the vacation as a family expense and a need to get up in the morning. . . . Money will be kept after school for failing to pay. . . .

Christmas Eve is a time when a phone call is a gift in itself. . . . One of the best is a call to a neighbor. . . . Yuletide is a time when a call is a gift in itself. . . .

No Answer Yet:

For optimism in post-agency (coupled with the greatest of optimism and possible bad taste) the wire sent the Duke of Windsor by the gentleman representing the New England company of "Boy Meets Girl" wins some sort of laurel leaf. The cable was sent to "King Edward VIII, care of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, Cannes, France," and read:

"You have created 'Boy Meets Girl.' Boy meets girl has been a girl. Congratulations. At that the president showed some restraint. He might have changed his cable to read: 'Boys Meets Girl, etc.'"

Once Over Lightly:

Exclusive: Norman R. Deane, here in the "eakes," will establish a store in Florida January 1, but proceedings aimed at his domestic future will be brought in Middlesex County. Fred Perry, tennis champion of the world, and Helen Wills, former American champion, will register at the Hotel Statler January 17. . . . Helen Vinson Perry will be in the party. . . . Gordon Hillman, former Boston movie picture critic, will have another short story in "The New Yorker." He's in Florida, and Arthur Wood, Harvard's chief purveyor, starts today for that state. . . . Fred Perry, tennis champion, would transfer his broadest of activities from Philadelphia to Boston. . . . Fred Perry's short of hand, meanwhile, are rallying in his support in the face of the decision of his sponsors to cast him a favor.

Something to Worry About:

There is a certain amount of worry in the minds of Boston's citizens. . . . The worry is not about the future of the city, but about the future of the city's citizens. . . . The worry is not about the future of the city, but about the future of the city's citizens. . . .

Chatter:

The Bostonian is a city of chatter. . . . The chatter is not about the future of the city, but about the future of the city's citizens. . . . The chatter is not about the future of the city, but about the future of the city's citizens. . . .

U. S. DEPARTMENTS Clash

By B. C. FORBES

Coordination among different departments of the government would modify business uncertainty and contribute to steady recovery.

COPPER, STEEL SHARES LEAD

New York, Dec. 22—What brokers termed an "oversold" stock market attracted buyers in sufficient numbers to rally recently depressed leaders fractions in 3 or more points.

The Federal Reserve bank's policy of "tight money" and the government's policy of "easy money" were the main factors in the rally.

When one department goes to the aid of another, the result is a clash of interests. This is the case in the government's policy of "easy money" and the Federal Reserve bank's policy of "tight money."

Rising Commodity Prices and Security Values

Rising commodity prices are reflected in the earnings of many corporations. Some companies report earnings that are inadequate to meet the needs of the business.

We are prepared to interpret these changes as they affect corporate earning power and are prepared to render technical assistance to those who wish to examine their portfolio in the light of changing commodity prices.
